

Remembering those who served, now beyond the sunset

Please Note

This document is an ongoing work in progress, and will remain so for the foreseeable future. Its purposes are to:

- 1) identify U.S. military veterans and the locations where their remains are interred or cremains scattered in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park;
- 2) honor those veterans by remembering their service and, as information is supplied, tell of their lives;
- 3) provide information which, supplemented by supporting data not included in the publication, may be helpful to those researching their lives and those of the people who once called this place home.

Corrections and additions, including biographical sketches, would be greatly appreciated. Please send correspondence to:

I. Introduction and Acknowledgments

This document was developed to remember and honor those who served in the military who are buried in Great Smoky Mountains National Park Cemeteries. The impetus behind its development came from a discussion between Joe Emert and Marilyn Childress of the Veteran Heritage Site Foundation following a talk given by Emert at the Tennessee Veterans Business Association in January, 2020.

After contacting the Park Service and learning that there was not such a listing, Emert was put in touch with Frank March, co-author with Bob Lochbaum of a comprehensive listing of cemeteries in the Park, A Field Guide to Cemeteries of the Great Smoky Mountains, scheduled for release in the fall of 2020. Together, they assembled lead supporters on the Tennessee and North Carolina sides of the Park, Sheila Evans of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Cocke County, TN and Don Casada, local historian with Friends of the Bryson City Cemetery, located in Swain County, NC.

Sheila and Don took the lead in identifying veterans in the two states, with assistance offered from multiple local sources and organizations. The listings assembled here are the result of those efforts. In older cemeteries, in particular, many graves are marked with nothing more than a field stone with no engravings or written records of who is buried. As a result, even with perfect data, there are bound to be omissions.

A number of sources were used to document the military experience of those named. See Section II, Methods and Sources.

In a project of this nature, errors and omissions are almost certainly to exist. Readers who recognize such errors or omissions, or who can provide guidance on any veteran that has been missed are encouraged to offer feedback.

In addition, as a part of the goal to remember and honor, sharing of stories, whether in written form or passed on by oral tradition, about these veterans are strongly encouraged. Examples of information of interest include where they lived, details about their family – both ancestors and descendants, and individual anecdotes about their lives.

For those interested in providing feedback on errors or omissions or offering supplemental stories, please e-mail Don.Casada@friendsofthebccemetery.org.

Acknowledgments

A number of folks contributed to the effort of identifying veterans. Assisting Sheila Evans with the Blount, Cocke and Sevier veterans were Frank March, whose directions to all the cemeteries are a part of this work, Duay O'Neil, Assistant Editor of The Newport Plain Talk, Ruth Matthews, a volunteer with the King Library's Rel and Wilma Maples History Center, Wilma Zavona and Ruth Davis of the Spencer Clack Daughters of the American Revolution, and Beth Freeman and Judy McGaha of the William Cocke Daughters of the American Revolution. Assisting Don Casada with the Swain County veterans on the north shore of Fontana and in the Lauada Cemetery were Bryan Aldridge, Henry Chambers, Karen Marcus and Christine Proctor of the Lauada Cemetery and North Shore Cemetery Historical Associations. Carol Litchfield provided cemetery records and coordinated reviews through the auspices of the Haywood County Historical and Genealogical Society. Roderick Law's assistance with Cades Cove veterans was very helpful.

II. Methods and Sources

A number of sources were researched to both identify and validate the service of the veterans listed. Many of the sources were available through three subscription services: Ancestry.com, Newspapers.com, and Fold3.com. Both Ancestry.com and Fold3.com archives include enlistment, induction, volunteer, pension, military headstone application, death certificate, and Veterans Affairs beneficiary records. Fold3.com and Newspapers.com data can be linked to individuals in ancestral trees of Ancestry.com, and as such, searches for individuals on Ancestry.com may point to military records such as those associated with Civil War service which are embedded in Fold3.com or obituaries found in the Newspapers.com venue.

These are not stagnant services; the record volumes continue to grow. It is necessary, however, to validate data highlighted by the service search engines by checking consistency with other records. For example, the same name may be found in different regiments during the Civil War. That could be due to two or more different individuals with the same name; that is often the case. But some individual soldiers served in multiple regiments and in a not insignificant number of cases, on both the side of the Union and the Confederacy.

To the extent practical, multiple means of validation were sought for each individual. In the case of Civil War veterans, which comprise the most populous cohort, there are potentially at least eight sources indicating service, including enlistment and muster records (Fold3.com), the 1890 Veterans Schedule (Ancestry.com), Pension records (Ancestry.com and published state records), National Park Service's online soldiers and sailors database, published obituaries (either shared personal copies or through newspapers.com), military gravestone applications (Ancestry.com), local historical and regimental history publications, and North Carolina Troops, 1861-1865, a twenty-nine volume comprehensive record of Confederate service, published by the North Carolina Office of Archives and History.

It should be noted that while one of the validation means used is the presence of a military grave marker, supporting records are still sought. In at least one Swain County case, a modern military marker is placed at a grave which already had a marked gravestone. There is significant disagreement in date of birth (28 years), and while an individual with the same given and surname did serve, he had a different middle name and there are records of him both living and being buried in another county, so the Swain County marker is not included in the listing.

Birth and death dates listed in the tables principally rely on the engraved dates of grave markers. Experience has shown that there are not infrequently errors in gravestone markings, particularly those placed years or decades after the burial. Within this listing of veterans, there are cases where multiple other data sources suggest that the markers are in error, so caution is encouraged. Additional underlying data is being accumulated in this project, and it will be made available upon request.

The current listing does not include men who served in local militia or home guard units during the Civil War.

Cenotaphs are included in the listings in italicized font.

III. Directions to Cemeteries

Directions and geographical coordinates to cemeteries in which U.S. military veterans are buried in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park are provided courtesy of Bob Lochbaum and Frank March, authors of A Field Guide to Cemeteries of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, which details the locations of all Park cemeteries.

The geographical coordinates use the UTM (Universal Transverse Mercator) coordinate system and the North American Datum of 1983 (NAD83). The USGS states that NAD83 and the World Geodetic System of 1984 (WGS84) are, for practical purposes, identical. Many historical maps rely on the NAD27 datum. Using the coordinates provided herein with a NAD27 – based GPS (Global Positioning System) unit can result in lateral errors of a few hundred yards, and depending on local terrain, over 100 feet in elevation, so users are cautioned to be certain of the datum.

The directions guide the user by distances along maintained trails, and can be readily followed without GPS assistance for most cemeteries. However, for some, such as the Jonas Jenkins cemetery on upper Mingus Creek, about a mile of off-trail travel is involved. Only those with considerable experience in off-trail navigation and intimate familiarity with the terrain in the Smokies should consider going to such off-trail locations; and when doing so, an accurate hand-held GPS unit (set to NAD83 datum) is highly recommended.

For those familiar with GSMNP trails and moderately skilled in map reading, most cemeteries can independently be located by use of the USGS maps. Locations marked on current USGS maps are quite accurate. The marked locations can typically be identified to within 10 meters (10 UTM units) by manual scaling using the map grids. That dimension is equivalent to the approximate length of small cemeteries and the accuracy of handheld GPS units.

Names for the cemeteries are those shown on modern USGS topographical quadrangle maps. The relevant quadrangle is noted for each cemetery and a snippet of the topo map is included along with the directions and coordinates. Electronic copies of current and historical maps can be downloaded, free of charge, from the USGS, at this location (current as of June, 2020):

<https://apps.nationalmap.gov/downloader/>

The currently available USGS maps (e.g., published between 2016 and 2019) are based on NAD83 datum, and so are consistent with the coordinates provided herein.

Using Topographical maps to identify UTM location and sensing distances

UTM location on topo maps can be reasonably estimated by manual measurements. Each grid section represents 1 square kilometer. Taking the Queens Cemetery of the Oconaluftee section in the map snippet below as an example, measurements from the 290 to 291 grid and from 290 to Queens Cemetery indicate that Queens is about 80% of the way from 290 to 291 – or an X location of 290800. Similarly, Queens is about 80% of the way up from 3933 to 3934 – meaning a Y location of 3933800. Both values were rounded to the nearest percent. The GPS measured location reported by Lochbaum and March is X=0290797 and Y=3933793. The approximated map-based estimate is 3 meters east and 7 meters north of the measured position, a difference of about 7.6 meters or 25 feet.

Using the same process, a map-based estimate of the Floyd Cemetery location achieved agreement to within 4.5 meters or 19 feet. Since the measured coordinates of Lochbaum and March are provided here, there is no need to make the estimates. However, the grids on the topo maps also give an excellent sense of scale and the challenge of the climb one faces. One kilometer is 0.61 miles, so one can immediately see that it is a relatively short walk along US441 from the Mingus Mill parking area to the access paths to the Floyd and Queens Cemeteries (although there are also areas along US441 to pull off the road near both cemetery paths). The Queens Cemetery is just above the 2200 ft elevation line and U.S. 441 is three lines below that. Each line is 40 feet, so a climb of about 120 feet to reach the Queens Cemetery is to be expected. Less than a 40 foot climb is required to ascend from US441 to the Floyd Cemetery.

BCXX Hilliard McGaha Tombstone

This is the location of a tombstone for Hilliard McGaha which is actually a cenotaph.

Information from family members indicates that Hilliard McGaha was killed in World War II. The family had this tombstone made but waited for some time for his remains to be returned to the US. Eventually, he was buried in the military section of a cemetery in Waynesville, NC. This tombstone was left at the family home site when the family moved out of the Park.

To reach the site, starting at the Mt. Sterling community, drive toward Mt. Sterling Gap on Mt. Sterling Road. There is an area suitable for parking on the right (north) side of the road 0.47 miles after re-entering the Park near Double Gap (this parking area is approximately 651' before the road crosses a culvert for Ball Branch). Park there and walk toward Mt. Sterling Gap a distance of 390'. Go off the road to the left (south) and walk down several feet to intercept an old roadway that runs approximately parallel with the Mt. Sterling Road but at a lower elevation [you will need to go toward the east (downhill), opposite to the direction that you had previously been heading]. Follow this old roadway 775' and look downhill to see the home site, which has a concrete and stone foundation and several large boxwoods. Drop down from the roadway to the home site, crossing Ball Branch in the process. The gravestone is leaning against the east side of the home foundation.

CT13 Sutton – McGee Cemetery

In some Park records and on the USGS topo, this is known as the Sutton & McGhee Cemetery. According to the family, the correct spelling is McGee. This cemetery is located off McKee Branch Trail (McKee is also a misspelling of McGee). From the intersection of McKee Branch Trail and Caldwell Fork Trail, hike 426 ft in a SE direction on McKee Branch Trail.

The path to the cemetery leaves McKee Branch Trail on the left (NE) side of the trail. It crosses a small creek (McKee Branch), follows a stone wall and then continues to the cemetery. The length of the path to the cemetery is 779 ft (0.15 miles).

Lauada Cemetery

Lauada Cemetery is not in the Park, but holds the remains of many individuals originally interred in the Park. It is located on the north side of US 74, five miles west of Bryson City Exit 67.

Fontana Dam was constructed in the 1940s. Prior to its construction, the Park boundary in the Fontana Lake section was well north of the current location. From Peachtree Creek, less than three miles northwest of Bryson City to Fairfax, west of Fontana Dam, hundreds of families occupied land which was taken by the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) and subsequently turned over to the Park Service.

Several dozen cemeteries were either flooded or isolated by the waters of Fontana. As a part of its standard procedure, TVA allowed families to elect to either leave the remains of family members in their original graves or to be disinterred and removed to another burial location. A total of 953 graves were disinterred and the remains moved elsewhere. Of these, 576 were in the part of Swain County that is now within the Park boundary.

TVA paid for the removal of remains, but provided no funding for the new burial locations; that burden was borne by the evicted families. Several groups, mostly composed of former church representatives, purchased adjacent sections of land in the Lauada area. Although the cemetery acquisition was segregated into four purchased sections, referred to as Judson, Monteith, Hyde and Delozier Cemeteries by TVA, today the burial ground is collectively known as Lauada Cemetery. The vast majority of the disinterred remains were relocated to this cemetery, including seventeen veterans whose graves were formerly within the Park boundary. Those veterans, including the cemeteries in which they were originally interred, are listed below.

FN10 Welch Cemetery

Take Lakeshore Trail west from Lakeview Drive, i.e., from the tunnel a distance of 11.96 miles (this point is 22.73 miles from the west trailhead of the Lakeshore Trail). You will be at Kirkland Branch and will have just passed Campsite 76 a distance of 409 ft before this point. The path to the cemetery is to the right (west, then NW). At about 870 ft (0.16 miles) it starts a “U” bend to the right at what appears to have been an old home site and continues on a SE heading a total distance of 0.26 miles to the cemetery.

This cemetery is also accessible by boat. Enter at Kirkland Branch (a distance of 10.0 miles from the Fontana Marina) and walk a short steep path (approximately 178 ft long) up to Lakeshore Trail. Upon reaching Lakeshore Trail, turn right (NE) and walk 43 ft to the path to the cemetery. The path to the cemetery is on the left (west) of Lakeshore Trail. Continue on the path (west, then NW, and then bending back to the SE) a distance of 0.26 miles to the cemetery.

If hiking from Pilkey Creek on Lakeshore Trail, go east on Lakeshore Trail a distance of 4.07 miles (measured from the east end of the Pilkey Creek bridge). The path to the cemetery will be on the left (west) of Lakeshore Trail. Follow the directions above to the cemetery.

HC09 Fairview Cemetery

Boat access to this cemetery is between the Whiteside Creek embayment and the Calhoun Branch embayment, a distance of 4.8 miles from the Fontana Marina. A roadbed will be visible on the east side of this embayment. Depending upon the lake level, this roadbed goes north about 0.38 miles to Lakeshore Trail. About 0.24 miles up this roadbed a spur road bed goes to the right (east) 176 ft in a SE direction to the cemetery.

It also possible to reach the cemetery from Lakeshore Trail. As mentioned, the access roadbed from the boat landing continues up to intersect Lakeshore Trail. This intersection is 13.43 miles from the western Lakeshore Trail trailhead at Fontana and 21.26 miles from its eastern trailhead at Lakeview Drive. It is 2.91 miles east from the Proctor bridge along Lakeshore Trail. From this Lakeshore Trail intersection, the access roadbed leads initially SW turning to south 735 ft to the spur roadbed on the left to the cemetery.

SM12 Old Beck Cemetery

This cemetery is off Tow String Horse Trail. To reach the starting point for these directions, cross the Oconaluftee River on Tow String Road and make an immediate left (north, then bearing NW). Drive to a parking area just before a gate and a bridge. Hike Tow String Horse Trail from its southern terminus, passing a gate and crossing a bridge, then turning right (north) and then after about 324 ft turning west. The turn to the west is at an intersection with one path continuing on straight to the north (Beck's Branch Trail) and another exiting to the SW (Smokemont Stables Trail). After turning west follow Tow String Horse Trail an additional 162 ft in a westerly direction to the cemetery path on the right (north) which leads in a steady climb NW 510 ft to the cemetery.

TW03 Orr Cemetery

From Tennessee, go to Deals Gap on US 129 and turn left onto NC 28 (toward Fontana). Drive past the Twentymile Ranger Station entrance road and begin to keep track of mileage from that point. Drive toward Fontana a distance of 2.87 miles from the access road to the Twentymile Ranger Station. You will be driving with Cheoah Lake on your right. At 1.16 miles after passing a large brick structure on the opposite shoreline (the Santeetlah Power Station), you will notice a small gravel pull-off on the left (north) side of the road. This is near where Fox Branch enters. Turn left to the pull-off, which becomes the Orr Cemetery Access Road. After 0.33 miles, the road ends at a gate. The path to the Orr Cemetery is on the right (south) of the road. Follow the path as it leads 114 ft to the cemetery, which is located almost directly underneath high power transmission lines.

From Fontana, NC, take NC 28 toward Deals Gap. You will cross from Graham County into Swain County while crossing a bridge over the Little Tennessee River. There is a former quarry site on the right (north) side of the road at the end of the bridge, and you will be driving with Cheoah Lake on your left. At 2.14 miles after you cross the bridge over the Little Tennessee River, you will notice a small gravel pull-off on the right side of the road. Turn onto the pull-off, which becomes the Orr Cemetery Access Road. Continue from this point following the directions above.

AC05 Parsons – Ghormley Cemetery

This cemetery is also known as the Chilhowee and as the St. James Episcopal Church Cemetery. A cornerstone of the original St. James Episcopal Church was found in Abrams Creek nearby showing a date of 1853.

Access to this cemetery is from US 129. Go east on US 129 from the intersection of US 129 and the Foothills Parkway 0.7 miles. Just before a bridge there is a historical marker for “Chilhowee.” This bridge crosses Abrams Creek. Just past the end of the bridge on the left there is a set of wooden steps with a handrail. This leads to a path. Go along this path 288 ft to the cemetery.

AC07 Bas Shaw Cemetery

This cemetery is also known as the Big Poplar Curve Cemetery.

Access to this cemetery is from US 129. Go SE (i.e., toward North Carolina) on US 129 from the intersection of US 129 and the Foothills Parkway 7.8 miles. You can also note mile marker 8 and drive an additional 1.5 miles (at this time, there is no mile marker 7). Alternatively, from the NC-TN state line at Deals Gap, go NW (into Tennessee) on US 129 a distance of 6.5 miles. The cemetery is half a mile after mile marker 6 when coming from North Carolina. You will be in a sharp curve with a small pull-off. There is a distinct path uphill on the east side away from the center of the loop from this pull-off. Go along this path 302 ft to the cemetery.

CO21 McKinney McMahan Cemetery

This cemetery is near the intersection of the Foothills Parkway East and Interstate 40. It is difficult to find without a GPS.

Go to Exit 443 off Interstate 40 and take the exit for Foothills Parkway. It is easier to access the cemetery if you take the exit as you are heading toward Newport, TN from the TN-NC state line (at this point, you will be going almost due north). Coming from this direction, park before the end of the guardrail just before crossing back over I-40 toward the Foothills Parkway.

From the end of the guardrail, go north (bearing 351°, with north as 0°) a distance of 296 ft to the cemetery. Use of a GPS is recommended.

GR01 Frazier Cemetery

This cemetery is off the Steiner Bell access path to Old Settlers Trail. Go east from Gatlinburg approximately four miles on US 321. The sign for Steiner Bell Lodge is on the right just before Wafloy Mountain Village. Follow the road up the hill and park in the Steiner Bell Lodge parking lot. This Lodge does not appear to be currently in operation, but you are on private property so use common sense and courtesy.

The access to Old Settlers Trail begins at an angle from the south side of the parking lot of Steiner Bell Lodge and proceeds in a SSE direction. Continue a distance of 0.21 miles to the path to the cemetery, which is on the right (west). The cemetery is 326 ft further on this path at the top of a hill.

It is also possible to access the cemetery from Old Settlers Trail. The point on Old Settlers Trail where the path leaves Old Settlers Trail toward Steiner Bell Lodge is 5.02 miles from the Greenbrier trailhead of Old Settlers Trail and 475 ft after crossing Evans Creek. This point is 10.74 miles from the Maddron Bald Trail end of Old Settlers Trail and 1.54 miles past campsite 33. If coming from Old Settlers Trail on the access path to Steiner Bell Lodge, go 823 ft (0.16 miles). The path to the cemetery will be on the left (west).

GR03 Lindsey Town Cemetery

This cemetery can be accessed by way of the Tunis Creek access road from US 321 a distance of 8.3 miles east of Gatlinburg. It is 0.75 miles from US 321 to the cemetery along this access road. The gate to this access road is normally locked, so it is usually necessary to walk from US 321 along the access road to the cemetery. There is a turn-around in the access road at the cemetery with two very short paths into the cemetery.

The cemetery can also be accessed from Old Settlers Trail. Use the GR01 directions to locate the Steiner Bell Lodge access to Old Settlers Trail. Continue on the access path a distance of 0.37 miles from the parking lot to Old Settlers Trail. Go right (SW) on Old Settlers Trail (toward Greenbrier) a distance of 0.58 miles. The path is to the right (west) of Old Settlers Trail. Go down a relatively steep bank and cross Snakefeeder Branch and then continue uphill along the trail 622 ft (0.12 miles) to the previously mentioned turn-around. For reference, the path is 11.32 miles from the Old Settlers Trail intersection with Maddron Bald Trail.

GR09 Parton Cemetery

This cemetery is located off Old Settlers Trail in the Greenbrier area.

Begin on Old Settlers Trail at the Greenbrier trailhead. Hike 0.65 miles in a generally northerly direction. The cemetery path slopes off to the left (NW) in a bend of the trail. This location is after you have crossed a tributary of the Little Pigeon River but before you have crossed Little Bird Branch. Follow the path 944 ft (0.18 miles). The cemetery is on a small rise 44 ft to the left of the path.

GR14 Whaley – Plemmons Cemetery

This cemetery is located in the Greenbrier area of the GSMNP. The Park refers to it as Whaley Cemetery while the Sevier County cemetery book calls it Plemmons Cemetery.

Come in the Greenbrier entrance of the Park and follow Greenbrier Entrance Road to Ramsey Cascade Road, which is 3.11 miles from its start at US 321. Turn left (east) on Ramsey Cascade Road. In 283 ft at a parking area there is a roadbed to the right (south) leading to the cemetery. At 558 ft (0.11 miles) along the roadbed at a “Y”, the road bears to the left and continues to a parking area about 729 ft (0.14 miles) further on. From the parking area take the path to the right (south) another 917 ft (0.17 miles) to the cemetery. An old roadbed also continues to the right from the “Y” a distance of 0.34 miles to a stairway to the cemetery, but it has become so overgrown that the road to the left is the logical and practical choice.

SU04 I. N. Trentham Cemetery

The Sevier County cemetery book calls this the Trentham Family Cemetery.

From Sugarlands Visitors Center, go left (SE) on Little River Road and take the first left onto US 441 North toward Gatlinburg. Travel a distance of 0.45 miles. There is a small parking lot on the right, 293 ft before the access road for the Sugarlands Horse Stables. The access path to the cemetery is on the right (SE) side of the road from the parking area. The total distance to the cemetery is 77 ft.

There is also a path from the Sugarlands Horse Stables road to the cemetery. Since there is additional parking there it may be desirable to continue (293') to that road and turn right (SW) on it. The path to the cemetery is 323' up this road on the right leading west 125' to the cemetery.

SU06 Burton Ogle Cemetery

The Sevier County cemetery book calls this the Sugarlands Cemetery.

Start on the Old Sugarlands Trail from the trailhead on US 441 near the Sugarlands Visitors Center about a quarter-mile north of the Little River Road intersection. The Old Sugarlands Trail proceeds in a SE direction along Bullhead Creek and at 0.68 miles, just after making a left turn (to the NE), there is an intersection with a trail to the right. The trail to the right is the Old Sugarlands Trail while the trail straight ahead is a horse trail. Stay on the Old Sugarlands Trail. From this point the trail descends a short distance toward Bullhead Creek, crossing a small tributary, and resumes in a SE heading along the creek. At 1.65 miles elapsed distance (from the beginning of the Old Sugarlands Trail), just after having made a third 90-degree turn, and with the trail heading in an easterly direction, there is an intersection. Turn right (south) at this intersection on the cemetery access trail (there is a U-shaped stone structure on the left of the roadway just after starting down it). Proceed along the roadway a distance of 0.54 miles, generally to the south, to an intersection. At this intersection, the path to the cemetery is on the left (east). Take the path 598 ft (0.13 miles) to the cemetery.

SU07 Spruce Flats Cemetery

The Sevier County cemetery book calls this the Bales Cemetery. The Park calls it the Spruce Flats Cemetery.

Come around the Roaring Fork Motor Nature Trail a distance of 2.85 miles (measured from the start of the Motor Nature Trail). You will have passed the Grotto Falls parking area (at 1.71 miles) and have come down a steep hill. At this point there is a modest- sized parking lot on the left (west) side of the road and you will see the sign for the Baskins Creek Trail. Walk 264 ft on the Baskins Creek Trail. ### SU09 Baskins Creek Cemetery

Follow the directions to SU07, Spruce Flats Cemetery. You start at the same parking lot on the Roaring Fork Motor Nature Trail for both SU07 and this cemetery. Hike 1.54 miles on the Baskins Creek Trail. There is a sign at this point showing the direction to the cemetery. The cemetery path is to the right of the trail. Climb up the rather steep path and proceed 687 ft (0.13 miles) as the path initially heads south and then turns west to the cemetery.

As an alternate route, you can also reach this cemetery from the opposite end of the Baskins Creek Trail. You reach this trail 0.18 miles after starting on the Roaring Fork Motor Nature Trail. The starting point to reach the cemetery is located on the left side of the Roaring Fork Motor Nature Trail at that point. Hike 1.18 miles on the Baskins Creek Trail. The path to the cemetery is on the left (west) side of the trail. Follow the above directions to the cemetery.

VI. Park-wide map

The foregoing directions to individual cemeteries are intended to provide the reader with specific route information to reach the cemetery from local points of reference. To help give a broader sense of the relative location of the cemeteries, an area map published by the Park Service has been annotated with county border outlines and approximate locations of all the cemeteries is provided below.

The overall map numbering is arranged so that the first entries are in Tennessee, in ascending order from west to east, and then North Carolina, also from west to east. In many cases, multiple cemeteries are in reasonably close proximity to one another, and the effort taken just to reach the general area of the cemetery will be large compared to that associated with visiting multiple locations in the area. Two examples are provided below.

1. Four cemeteries are tightly clustered in the western end of Cades Cove: Cable Cemetery and the cemeteries for three Cades Cove Churches: Primitive Baptist, Methodist, and Missionary Baptist. Less than four miles travel by road is required to access all four cemeteries, while it is over 10 miles from Townsend to reach the closest of the four, Cades Cove Primitive Baptist Cemetery. In addition to these four cemeteries where veterans are buried, there are six other area cemeteries. All ten lie within a circle with a one mile radius, as shown below. Two other cemeteries, Rowans and Ike LeQuire, are in the eastern part of Cades Cove.

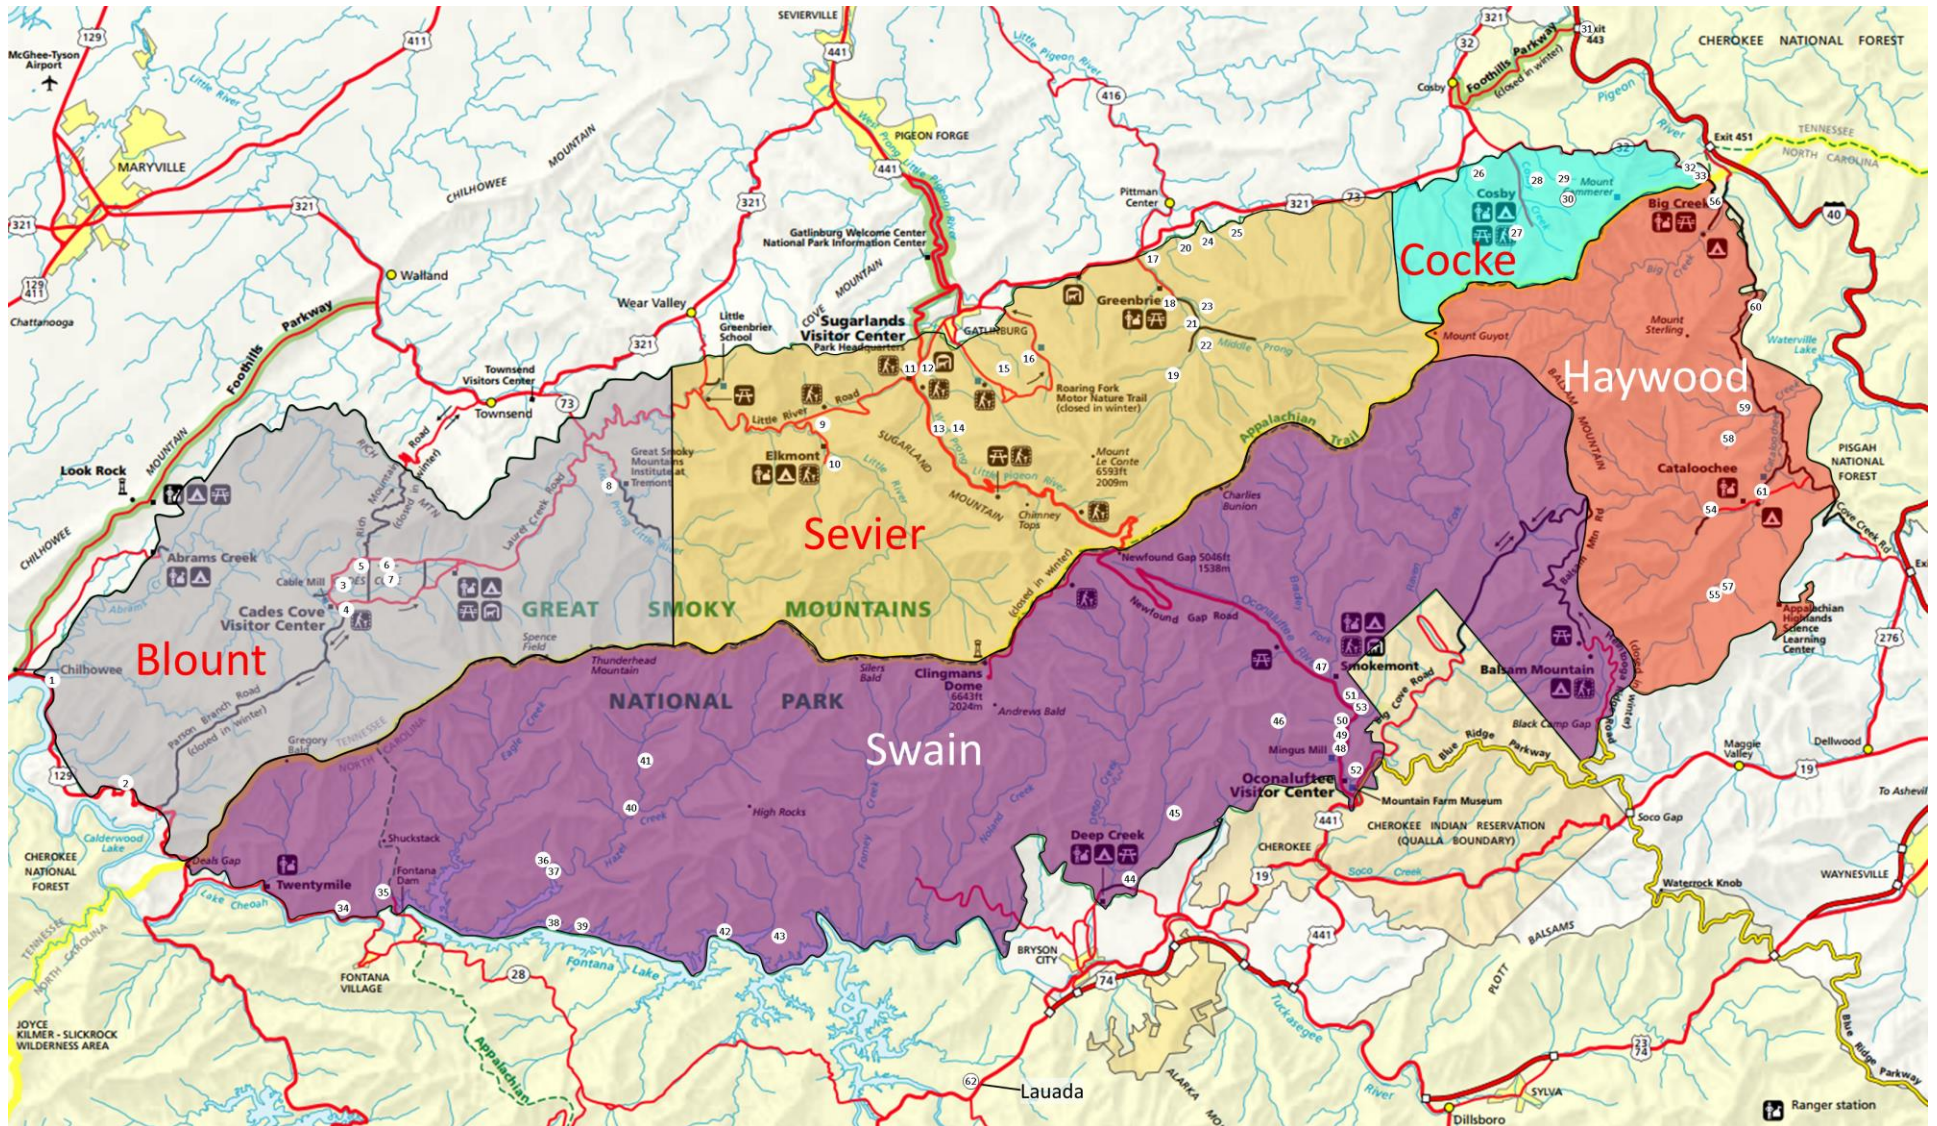

2. Another prime example of numerous cemeteries in close proximity is along the Oconaluftee River, just north of the Park visitor's center. Within a span of less than three miles on either side of US 441, six cemeteries which include veterans are found. The climbs to Old Beck and Hughes Cemeteries are a bit steep, but not long. All six, as well as the Bradley Cemetery, just a bit north of the map segment shown below, could be visited in a single afternoon outing by someone accustomed to walking in the Smokies. Several other nearby cemeteries, such as Enloe (across the road from the visitor's center) and the Enloe (also known as Mingus) African-American Cemetery (adjacent to the Mingus Mill parking lot), and Nations, located just above Hughes, could be part of an enjoyable contemplative outing. Other area cemeteries, including Chambers, Mingus Creek and Jonas Jenkins, require more foot travel. Jonas Jenkins, in particular, should only be sought by those who are well accustomed to the off-trail conditions encountered in the Smokies (thus the red circle)

The Bennett brothers: Archibald Lafayette and Sylvanus Crisenberry

By: Don Casada

Among the earliest settlers in the beautiful, remote Cataloochee Valley was the family of Young and Allie Mease Bennett. They were married in March, 1832, and got right to business. On the first Christmas Day they celebrated as a wedded couple, a babe, Jasper Newton Bennett was born.

In that Eden called Cataloochee, surrounded by tall trees on tall ridges, the Bennetts followed the Lord's admonition to be fruitful and multiply; their line ran heavily toward boys. Succeeding Jasper Newton were Archibald Lafayette (1835), Creighton Maury (1836), Washington George (1839), Sylvanus Crisenberry (1841), Young Amanuel (1846), and Manson Turner (1849). At least three other children, two girls (Sophia and Mary) and another son, Harry, were born to Young and Allie.

The six eldest brothers of the Young and Allie Bennett family enlisted in the Confederacy during the Civil War. Four of the brothers – Jasper, Archibald, Creighton and Sylvanus were married with children when they left Cataloochee to fight in a war in which they, like the overwhelming majority of Western North Carolinians, had no stake with regards to slavery. In the 1860 slave census for Haywood County, only 5.4% of the population was enslaved, and none of those listed as slave owners have a known connection to Cataloochee. Absent from the Haywood County slave census schedule are Cataloochee-connected surnames of Bennett, Caldwell, Messer, Palmer, Hannah, Sutton, Woody and Noland.

There is simply no way to know or understand their motivations for enlisting without having walked in their shoes. It is notable, however, that both North Carolina and Tennessee, in statewide elections, had rejected secession in February 1861, and it was only after South Carolina's firing on Fort Sumter led to Lincoln calling for troops to suppress the rebellion that both states elected to secede. It seems reasonable to conjecture that the strong connection of mountain folk to the place they called home was a significant factor.

Three of the Bennett brothers – Archibald Lafayette, Washington George, and Sylvanus Crisenberry enlisted in the 29th NC Infantry Company E on August 17, 1861, four months after Confederate forces fired on Fort Sumter. Company E was raised in Haywood County on that date, under Captain Hiram Cyrus Rogers, the uncle of Archibald Bennett's wife, Angeline. Archibald and Washington mustered in as sergeants while 20-year old Sylvanus enlisted as a private. At some unknown date, the youngest of the Bennett sons who served, Young Amanuel, enlisted in the same company. Brothers Creighton and Newton enlisted in the 62nd NC Infantry in July, 1862.

The Bennett brothers' war experience was cursed, and it must have been devastating to their family back in Cataloochee – an area which was subject to depredations from both sides. In the Battle of Stones River, near Murfreesboro, TN, Archibald Bennett's left leg was wounded and he was taken prisoner on December 31, 1862. He was hospitalized, but died of wounds three weeks later. Nine months later, his brother Sylvanus was killed in action at Chickamauga, GA. Stones River and Chickamauga were among the highest casualty battles during the war.

All four of the other Bennett brothers were taken prisoner during the war. Newton, Creighton and Washington all spent much of the war at infamous Camp Douglas in Chicago. Three of the brothers – Young, Washington, and Newton – were part of a prisoner exchange in March, 1865. Many of those involved on both sides were in poor health, as evidenced by the fact that both Newton and Young were hospitalized after the exchange. Creighton was confined at Camp Douglas for 21 months. His release came on June 12, 1865, two months after Lee's surrender at Appomattox.

Of the six brothers who left to fight in a war which held no promise, four returned to Haywood County. Brothers Washington, Newton and Young Amanuel made new homes in the Fines Creek area, east of Cataloochee. Washington and Newton remained there for the balance of their lives, and both are buried at Green Hill Cemetery in Waynesville. Young Amanuel and family later moved to near Spartanburg for work in a cotton mill. His wife died there; he remarried and relocated to southwestern Virginia.

Of the sons, only Creighton returned to make a life in Cataloochee with his wife Louisa Caldwell (daughter of early Cataloochee settler Levi Caldwell), but he only lived about another dozen years. He is buried in the Palmer Chapel Cemetery in an unmarked grave, along with his parents, Young and Allie. When the land in Cataloochee was taken for the Park, Creighton's son, Andrew Carson (Andy), and his grandsons George Western and William Bartley owned three tracts in the Little Cataloochee drainage.

Three place names in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park bear the imprint of four generations of the Young and Allie Bennett. Young and Allie and their family lived in the Bennett Branch area, which the road from Big Cataloochee to Little Cataloochee crosses. Andy Branch, which lies on the southwestern side of Long Bunk Ridge of Little Cataloochee, is named for their grandson Andrew Carson Bennett, who owned 142 acres along the stream. These places had long been known by those names when the Park was established.

Archibald's son, Aurelius McDonald Bennett, who was born in the month before Archibald enlisted, never saw his father again. But he went on to become a medical doctor, having received his medical training at the University of Louisville. He moved to the Swain County area, where he practiced medicine in for a half century. He married Mary Charlotte Hyatt, the daughter of Edward Gaither "Ned" Hyatt for whom Hyatt Creek, Hyatt Ridge and Hyatt Bald of the Straight Fork section of the Park are named. Their son, Kelly Edmond Bennett (great-grandson of Young and Allie Bennett), promoted the development of the Park and the area in general, served in the NC State Legislature and on the NC Park Commission. Kelly Bennett Peak, located in the Park along the Noland Divide between Noland and Lands Creeks and less than five miles from his home in Bryson City, bears his name.

Robert Collins (September 4, 1806 – April 9, 1863)

By: Don Casada

Both the father and the early years of Robert Collins remain elusive to family and historical researchers. Census records suggest his year of birth was between 1807 and 1811. His grave marker, placed well after his death, indicates his date of birth as September 4, 1806.

It seems very likely that his mother was named Catherine. In the 1830 Haywood County census, a Catherine Collins, as head of household and between 40 and 49 years of age, had a family of four sons and three daughters. Her name was listed along with other early Oconaluftee area settlers with surnames Mingus, Enloe, Hughes, Beck, Conner, and Stillwell. The oldest male in her household was between 20 and 29 years of age; this was presumably Robert. Catherine does not appear in subsequent Haywood census records, but Robert is listed as head of household from 1840-1860.

One conjecture is that Robert was the son of Catherine McMurry and John Collins, who were married in Rutherford County, NC on April 2, 1809. One of the bondsmen for that marriage was John McMurry, presumably Catherine's brother.

Robert married Elizabeth Beck, daughter of early Oconaluftee area settlers John Philip and Jane Swearingen Beck; together the couple had five daughters and eight sons, all born along the Oconaluftee River. Robert and Elizabeth were among twenty one early area settlers who met at the home of John Mingus on June 6, 1836 to organize the Oconaluftee Baptist Church. Robert Collins and Ephraim Mingus, an older brother of John Mingus, were named the first church deacons.<sup>1</sup>

In that same decade, Robert oversaw the construction of the Oconaluftee Turnpike, which had been authorized by the NC Legislature during the 1831-32 session.<sup>2</sup> The turnpike ran "from the top of the Smoky Mountain, down the Oconaluftee river, to the house of John Beck." The specific location of "the top of the Smoky Mountain" which was chosen for the road was Indian Gap, which is now the location of the trailhead of the Park-maintained Road Prong Trail. Much of the construction work on the turnpike was performed by Cherokees – both men and women – paid at the rate of 25 cents a day. Collins was the original toll keeper for the turnpike. Toll rates ranged from 1 cent per head of hog or sheep to 75 cents for a "4-wheel carriage of pleasure." The turnpike ran between the Collins home and the Oconaluftee River, on the east side of the river, a short ways above the mouth of Collins Creek.

In the 1850s, Robert and two of his sons acted as guides and hosts for Arnold Guyot during his mapping and phenomenal peak elevation measurement work. In a July 18, 1860 Letter to the Editor of Asheville News<sup>3</sup> which occupied a full page of the paper, Guyot reported measured elevations of dozens of locations throughout Western North Carolina, along the NC-TN state line as well as the Le Conte massif in east Tennessee. Guyot acknowledged the assistance a number of folks who had facilitated and assisted his efforts, naming luminaries such as Thomas Lanier Clingman, James Robert Love and his sons Robert and Dr. S.L. Love. But he reserved his warmest thanks for "my excellent friend, Robt. Collins Esq., of Oconaluftee Valley, for the Smoky Mountains. Mr. Collins placed himself and his sons at my disposal for more than a month and without his intelligent aid I scarcely could have succeeded, as I did, in exploring to my satisfaction that most wild and difficult portion of the mountains of North Carolina." Guyot asserted that Collins was the greatest authority around the high point of the Smokies, Clingmans Dome.

Collins was well into his 50s when the Civil War broke out. Like the overwhelming majority of mountain folks of Western North Carolina, Collins never owned slaves, but took the side of his native southland, as did his oldest four sons, John Tatham, Robert Harrison, Joseph Alexander and David Kimsey. Robert was selected by Will Thomas, white chief of the Cherokees and Colonel of the Thomas Legion, to oversee construction of a fort on the Tennessee side of the Smokies in the general area which is known today as Fort Harry, located to the north of the Chimney Tops. During the fort construction, he contracted pneumonia and died on April 9, 1863. His son Robert Harrison Collins, who had enlisted as a Private with the 25th NC Infantry Regiment and had been promoted to Sergeant in 1862, died of a bayonet wound suffered at Warm Springs Virginia six months later.

Another son, Joseph Alexander Collins, was wounded at Malvern Hill in 1862, but returned to service. The oldest of the brothers who served, John Tatham, was wounded near Staunton, Virginia on June 5, 1864 and hospitalized for two weeks in Danville. The youngest of the brothers, David Kimsey, was twice taken POW and twice escaped. All three of the surviving brothers lived long and productive lives. A total of six grandchildren of Robert Collins were named for him. Each of the three brothers who survived the war had sons named Robert, as did a younger brother of theirs, Andrew Thomas. Three of Robert and Elizabeth's daughters, Catherine Collins Mingus, Sarah Collins Ogle, and Lucinda Collins Ward also had sons whom they named for Robert.

Mt. Collins, Collins Gap, and Collins Creek are all named for Smoky Mountain pioneer, Ocona Lufta Church deacon, road builder, toll keeper, and guide to Arnold Guyot, Robert Collins, Esquire.

William Alfonzo Marcus (Mar 3, 1839 – Aug 26, 1933)

By: Karen Marcus (g-g-g niece)

William Alfonzo “Fonze” Marcus, aka W. A. Marcus was born in Burke County, North Carolina and came to what is now Stecoah, Graham County by 1850. Over the course of his life time, he lived in many different places in the Little Tennessee River basin. He lived on Hazel Creek when Fonzy Hall discovered copper and was on the crew of men that built the mining town on Little Fork when W. S. Adams started mining for copper in 1889. At one time, the hamlet at the mouth of Calhoun Branch was named for him, identified as Marcus. He later lived at Wayside.

Fonze once said that he had enlisted at the mouth of Nantahala Creek. With the start of the Civil War, many men of Macon County were recruited in the 1st NC Cavalry, company K known as the Nantahala Rangers. Fonze was officially mustered in at Camp Woodfin, Asheville on July 11, 1861. The enlistment place was later identified as Franklin on the muster rolls, which may have been because Franklin was the county seat of Macon County. By August 1st, the entire regiment was in training at Camp Beauregard, Ridgeway, Warren County, NC. In October, the regiment marched to Manassas and by December became a part of Jeb Stuart’s First Brigade.

In March 1862, when Burnside began his attack on NC, the regiment moved to Kinston and remained there until mid-June when they returned to Virginia. The regiment participated in the battles of Frazier’s Farm and Malvern Hills, Second Manassas, Sharpsburg, Chambersburg, and many others. Fonze served under Captain Thad Siler, Lieutenant William Addington, and second Lieutenant William Roane. Once in his story telling he described being surrounded by seven lines of Federal infantry. When dawn came and the guns began to boom, the Confederate unit broke through the Federal lines. In the process of the break-thru, Fonze captured five prisoners and brought out a wounded man and a horse.

During the battle at Brandy Station, Fonze and Joel Lovin had taken a horse from a Yankee Captain. Later, in the midst of the fighting, he saw the mare blown to bits but the rider, Lieutenant Sam Gibson, who would settle in the Lauada area after the war, landed on his feet.

Muster rolls show that on September 21, 1863 he had transferred to Company H, 16th NC Infantry. November-December 1863 muster roll reported that he was “Absent” and “Missing in action,” as of November 30. Records from Old Capital Prison, Washington, D.C. show that he was captured at Mine Run, Virginia November 30.

Many Confederate soldiers accepted President Lincoln’s offer of citizenship restoration and joined the Union Army. Fonze was released from prison on March 19, 1864 and on March 21 became a private of Captain James Lloyd’s Company A, 15th Regiment of the Pennsylvania Cavalry, signing the oath of allegiance to the United States of America on March 21, 1864 in Philadelphia, PA. With the 15th, he was in the fighting around Atlanta and at Peachtree Creek. At the time of his discharge, he said that he was an orderly to General Thomas. He was discharged July 18th, 1865, Nashville, TN. The muster roll for the 15th Pennsylvania Cavalry April 18, 1864 shows that he was 5'9", light complexion, grey eyes, light hair whereas his discharge paper indicated that he had dark complexion. At the time of his enlistment, his occupation was “farmer.”

Fonze was first married to Elizabeth Jenkins. At the age of 70, he divorced and married Millie Elizabeth Proctor.<sup>1</sup> From the two families he fathered 12 children and reared at least one stepchild who took the surname Marcus. He carried many occupations over the course of his lifetime including stable boss when the railroad was being built, farmer, carpenter, gunsmith, cobbler, miller, tinker, and was a great bear hunter and trout fisherman. He joined the Baptist Church when he returned from the war and became a Baptist Minister served in many of the churches of the Tennessee River Baptist Association and baptized many souls. He was affectionately known by so many as “Uncle Fonze” and many children were named after him. He was well loved by the people in Swain County and the surrounding area. Although popular writings say that he lived to be 100, he died at the age of 94. He is buried in the Cable Cemetery on the Northshore of Fontana Lake.

James Proctor (Dec 7, 1834 – Feb 3, 1910)

By: Don Casada

James Proctor was born on December 7, 1834 in either North Carolina or Tennessee (most likely NC). He was among the first white children raised on Hazel Creek. His life span was essentially synchronous with the lifespan of post-settler Hazel Creek from its earliest days to just prior to the onset of industrial scale logging operations.

Raised by pioneering parents Moses and Patience Rustin Proctor, around 1854 James married Milly Welch from another pioneering family which settled several miles up the Little Tennessee River. The couple started a family of their own in close proximity to his parents, Moses and Patience.

The lives of James and his family, along with those of the entire nation, were thrown into upheaval with the coming of the Civil War. Two younger brothers of James, Mansfield and Moses, Jr, enlisted shortly after the firing upon Fort Sumter, with both enlisting in Company K of the 1st NC Cavalry Regiment. As far as is known, the day that the two boys left was the last time that the lullaby waters of Hazel Creek carried them to sleep at night. Moses, Jr died of typhoid fever at Manassas, Virginia on March 3, 1862, less than eight months after enlisting. Mansfield was killed in action at Jack's Shop, north of Charlottesville, Virginia, on September 22, 1863.

James did not immediately enlist. In April of 1862, the Confederate Congress enacted a law calling for conscription of white males between the ages of 18 and 35. On the heels of that enactment, James and his older brother William enlisted in Thomas's Legion in July, 1862.

James was reported present at all muster rolls until his capture at Cumberland Gap on September 9, 1863. From the battlefield he was sent first to Louisville, then on to Camp Douglas in Chicago, where he arrived on September 26, 1863. Conditions at Camp Douglass were severe. More than 4,000 Confederate soldiers who did not survive incarceration there were buried in a mass grave. After the war, the bodies were exhumed and removed to the Oak Woods Cemetery in Chicago.

James endured the brutal circumstance for over a year and a half. On April 2, 1865, he took the oath of allegiance and enlisted in Company I, 6th US Volunteer Infantry. That duty took him westward into the western territories of what would later become states of Nebraska and Wyoming. While there is no record indicating that James was involved in hostile encounters, one of his assignments was at Fort Laramie, where three years later the Sioux Treaty of 1868<sup>2</sup> was signed. Two of the signatories were William Tecumseh Sherman and Red Cloud.

After his return from the Civil War and his service with the US Volunteer Infantry, James, Milly and their children<sup>3</sup> first lived in the Cades Cove area until moving back to North Carolina around 1874. They remained on the sunny side of the Smokies until likely between 1905 and 1910, with much of that time spent in the remote reaches of Twentymile Creek. In their latter days, James and Milly and a portion of their children returned to Cades Cove, where the earthly years of James and Milly were fulfilled. James died on February 3, 1910, and Milly died the following year. Both are buried in Cades Cove Primitive Baptist Church Cemetery.

<sup>2</sup> The treaty ultimately failed when the United States annexed land which was protected under the treaty conditions less than a decade after it was signed. Ironically, the place from which James had originally come – Hazel Creek – would be another location where the U.S. Government failed to live up to promises made in writing three-quarters of a century later.

Maxine Sue “Suzie” Arms McMurchie Butler Skelton

By: Terri Butler (daughter)

Suzie Skelton; mom, granny, public accountant, Navy Veteran, avid science fiction reader and friend to many.

Suzie was all of the above, but she was proudest of the first two.

As a mom, she was a caring and concerned parent. She was always willing to act as chaperone and driver for a group of teenagers who wanted or needed to go somewhere without a “nosey parent” along. She always took along her latest book and let the group of teenagers be teenagers while she watched and read her book. She was very popular with the teenage friends of her daughter and that made Suzie and Terri even closer as Terri got older.

At the age of 44, Suzie became the second of the above. When asked what she wanted her grandchild to call her, she chose “Granny”! That was the name chosen by her mother-in-law at the birth of Terri and Suzie said that if she could be half the grandmother that the first granny was; then, she would have accomplished something great.

Suzie was a wonderful “Granny”; she loved spending time with Heather and was always available as a cheerleader for whatever sport her granddaughter chose to play.

Terri Butler and her mother Suzie ca. 1970

In May of 1995, Suzie was diagnosed with small cell lung cancer. She took both chemo and radiation and in December of that same year, she was pronounced cancer-free. That was a happy day for Terri and Heather, but Suzie was to be tested every month for signs of the cancer’s return. In June, after six months cancer-free scans, Suzie, Terri and Heather went on their first family vacation. They went to Daytona Beach, Florida for a week and had a wonderful time.

In July, Suzie was given her scan results, she was told that she once again needed to see an oncologist. That appointment was on 21 August 1996, just three days after Suzie's 58th birthday.

The oncologist told Suzie that her cancer was back and that it was terminal. The doctor told her that he estimated her time at three to six months. She opted for quality of life rather than quantity of life and though she fought a hard fight, she was only given three months and one week. She passed away on 28 November 1996.

After all the pain and suffering, Terri told Heather, "It's truly a day of thanksgiving, your granny is no longer in pain." You see 28 November that year was Thanksgiving Day!

It has been said that the more a person has touched the lives of the people around them while they lived, the bigger the void they leave when they are gone!" That being said, Suzie must have touched a lot of people because the void she left behind has never been filled. She is still loved and missed by all who knew her.

Richard Lawrence Williams (April 21, 1933 – October 28, 2018)

By: Lee Anne Williams (daughter)

Richard Williams was an avid backcountry fly fishing expert and had a wealth of knowledge of the trails on the North Carolina side of the Great Smokies National Park from 20 Mile Creek to Cabin Flats! He could also tell you what any wildflower was. Through the years he had many encounters with bears and rattlesnakes all that fortunately ended well.

Before Richard even hit his teen years the moment the school doors were closed for the Summer, he would pack his fly rod and provisions to go spend 3 or more weeks at a time backcountry. He would come out to bring his parents trout, then restock and head back in. Richard was very good friends with early Deep Creek Ranger, Bill Rolan (who served in the Park Service for over three decades, retiring as District Ranger in 1969). They were steadfast friends and had the utmost respect for each other. Back in the earlier days there was a telephone line that ran from the Rangers house on Deep Creek up the trail to the Bumgarner Cabin and on up the Pullback Trail to the Bryson Place. Even today some of the line remains. Richard would always stop by and let Rolan know when he was going in because Richard's mother would always worry! Bill Rolan would have Richard check in with him by the phone to let him know all was well in the woods or if he needed to come check something out.

Richard, graduated from Swain County High School, served in the Army during the Korean War at Ft. Jackson. During this time the 82nd Airborne "screaming eagles" housed at Ft. Jackson due to circumstances at their home base, so everyone at Ft. Jackson for that time was also part of the 82nd Airborne and wore the screaming eagle on their uniforms, however it did not have the Airborne mark over the eagle's head. After serving in the Army Richard went on to graduate from the University of Tennessee of Knoxville in Design Engineering. He married Swain County's Rita Lee Jones and together had 5 girls all that camped, fished and hiked the backcountry and found the same love. Richard continues to hike until he was 83. After passing, his daughters and friends brought him and his wife home and dispersed their ashes at the Indian Creek Falls, just down below the old home place of Smoky Mountain icon, Mark Cathey, with whom Richard's father and grandfather had hunted and fished.

IX. Bibliography

1. 1890 Veterans Schedule. While this “census” was intended to record Civil War veterans who served the Union, a number of men who served in the Confederate States were also noted.
2. Veterans Affairs Beneficiary Identification Records Locator Subsystem.
3. Listings of North Carolina militia members who participated in the 1838 Cherokee Removal. These records are tabulated on line at New River Notes.
4. U.S. Civil War Pension Records (Union only)
5. North Carolina Confederate Pension Applications, available through North Carolina Digital Collections, a joint collection of the State Archives and State Library of North Carolina.
6. State death certificates. The availability varies by state. Ancestry.com includes copies of death certificates filed in North Carolina from 1909 until 1976 and in Tennessee from 1908 until 1965. Beyond those end dates, records must be sought at individual county records.
7. Fold3.com, a subscription service which includes service records for wars beginning with the Revolution. At present, Fold3.com can be quite troublesome in record searches. That will hopefully improve with time.
8. U.S. Headstone Applications for Military Veterans, 1925-1963, , available through Ancestry.com.
9. Research Guide for Headstone Records for U.S. Military Veterans Buried in Nonfederal Cemeteries, 1879-1985, National Archives and Records Administration. This guide includes links to online sources and information regarding physical archival locations.
10. The presence of a military gravestone at the burial site. Additional validation is used to confirm (or refute) the validity of the marker. In at least one situation, a military marker was deemed insufficient because a marker for the same named person, with substantial corroborative data was located in another cemetery.
11. World War I Records (Ancestry.com).
12. North Carolina Troops, 1861-1865, a twenty-nine volume comprehensive record of Confederate service, published by the North Carolina Office of Archives and History (2008 edition). Available at Marianna Black Library, Bryson City, Jackson County Library, Sylva, and Haywood County Library, Waynesville.
13. Roster of North Carolina troops in the war between the states, available online via links provided in NCPedia. This work was a resource used in North Carolina Troops (above).
14. National Park Service on line listing of soldiers and sailors of the Civil War.
15. Published obituary (principally through a subscription service, newspapers.com).
16. War of 1812 Pension Applications, available through Ancestry.com
17. Spanish-American War Volunteers, available through Ancestry.com.
18. TVA burial records (Fontana project), available through Ancestry.com. PDF and Excel files are available through TVA.com
19. Veterans' gravesites on Ancestry.com
20. World War II enlistment records, available through Ancestry.com.
21. World War II enlistment records, available free at link.
22. Confederate Pension Applications, 1885 and 1901, State Archives of North Carolina, available on line at North Carolina Digital Collections.
23. Military records available through MyHeritage.com (subscription service).

24. In the Shadow of the Smokies, Sevier County, Tennessee Cemeteries, 1993, Smoky Mountain Historical Society, Sevierville, TN.
25. Sacred to the Memory, Part II, Cocke County, Tennessee Cemeteries, 2009, Library Friends, Newport, TN.
26. Gone So Soon, The Cemeteries of Blount County, Tennessee, Volume III, 2011, Robert A. McGinnis, Knoxville, TN.
